MERCHANTS OBJECT TO BUSINESS TAX AMENDMENT

Meeting Held at Driad on Friday Evening Last. Unfair Assessment Charged. Association Formed to Take up Assessment and Other Matters.

A largely attended meeting of business men was held at the Driad hotel banquet room on Friday evening last when the proposed amendment to a rental basis was discussed. W. J. Loggie was selected as the chairman and A. E. Wynne was named as secretary of the meeting.

The meeting developed into a free discussion of the assessment generally, several of the business men protesting that they had been unjustly assessed this year and thought they were being asked to pay more than their share of the city's taxes. Some went so far as to claim that their neighbors were not paying in proportion to their own assessment.

It was thought by some that the assessor's roll should be checked over and when this suggestion was put to a vote of the meeting it was agreed upon. The motion was to the effect that an organization be formed for the purpose of taking up the assessment and other matters with the city council.

The organization was then proceeded

FRANK OLIVER FOR SENATE SAYS OTTAWA

Ottawa, June 13.—Applications are arriving by every mail and every other line of communication for the Alberta vacancy in the senate. Friends of Frank Oliver are busy and want him back in the arena, considering that his claims are pre-eminent. The only fly in the ointment is that there is a considerable French Canadian population in Alberta which Senator Forget will represent, and several politicians of that nationality are already expressing a willingness to sacrifice themselves upon the altar of service.

But for that there would be little question of Mr. Oliver's appointment and he may get it as it is.

Another Report
Winnipeg, June 13.—The Manitoba Free Press this morning publishes a dispatch from its Ottawa correspondent stating that it is understood on good authority that Hon. Frank Oliver, former member for Edmonton and minister of the interior in the Laurier government from 1906 to 1911, will re-enter the political arena after several years absence therefrom by appointment to the senate in the place of Hon. Senator Amos-Emanuel Forget, or Banfill, who died recently.

FEEDING STEERS TO MAKE PROFIT

The observation is made by the superintendent of the experimental station at Scott, Saskatchewan, that droves of unfinished cattle are sold each fall on a low market, while from the same farms that furnish them, feed grain is also sold at low prices. At this station it has been the practice to feed a number of steers on such feeds as are ordinarily grown on western farms. In the report for the year, the superintendent states that the average spread between the price paid for feeders and the price at which the steers were sold was 2.42 cents a pound, for the past five years. This period includes the year 1920-21 when the selling price was below the purchase price owing to the depreciation of values from wartime to normal prices. That was the only year in which the steers were fed at a loss. The average yearly profit during the five years amounted to $16.17 per head excluding labor and interest charges. While the total profit was $2,429.42. The number of animals fed was 121, and stabling consisted of a straw shed such as any farmer can provide.

WEDDINGS

MANES — TORESON

A pretty wedding was solemnized at high noon on Sunday, June 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Toreson, Wetaskiwin, when their only daughter, Katie Irene was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur McDonald Manes, of Calgary.

The bride, charmingly gowned in maize georgette, trimmed with uniform embroidery and beads, and carrying a profuse bouquet of roses and carnations, entered the parlor on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Ella Olsen. She was supported by Miss Hilford Osterlund as bridesmaid, while Mr. Leo Vau supported the groom.

The bride was a string of pearls, and the bridesmaid a gold brooch set with pearls, to the pianist a gold brooch set with pearls and anklets, and to the best man, a gold stickpin with pearls.

Amid showers of confetti and rice and the good wishes of a host of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Manes left on the midnight train for Calgary where they will make their home at 1702 7th St. W. where Mrs. Manes will be at home after the 29th inst.

The game was played at the Arena stadium in the most picturesque setting ever offered at an athletic event in Edmonton. The immense bowl brilliantly lighted and filled almost to capacity was gay with bright colors. Row upon row rising from the ground into the dark recesses near the roof was a bank of people, the ladies in bright colors, and the men, mostly with their coats removed.

The second game of the series is to be played this evening, when it is expected that the Cleveland team will have considerably overcome the handicap caused by the higher altitude.

EDMONTON DEFEATS CLEVELAND 34 TO 20 IN THE FIRST GAME

Setting a whirlwind pace and using a dazzling system of combination, the Edmonton Commercial Graduates on Tuesday night before a crowd of over 5,000 people defeated the Cleveland Favorite Knits 34 to 20 in the first of a two game series for the world's ladies' basketball championship.

The defensive work of the Grads was the outstanding feature of the game. It had the United States champions completely puzzled and that combined with better shooting, snappier passing and surer handling of the ball gave the Edmonton team their victory.

GIRLS' MISSION CIRCLE

The Girls' Mission Circle of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. J. Baldry on Monday evening. The meeting opened with a song service, singing the new Temperance songs, conducted by Mrs. Mellett after which Virginia Millin gave the report from branch convention. This was followed by the presentation of a life membership certificate to the president of the circle. This certificate was a prize awarded to the Wetaskiwin circle by the Alberta branch convention for the largest increase in percentage of members and funds in the province for the year. At the close of the meeting daltry refreshments were served by the hostess.

OPTIMISM SWEEPS WHOLE PROVINCE

Calgary, June 11.—The third crop report of the Herald's special correspondents throughout Alberta, are by far the most encouraging since 1915 and might well cause a wave of optimism in business and in other circles. There will assuredly be a much larger acreage this year compared to 1922. Some time ago the Herald stated that farmers intended putting in more wheat in view of the excellent moisture, and this is now confirmed by the last reports received.

BLACK FOXES FOR ALBERTA RANCH

Forty-five black foxes have been shipped from Summerside, P.E.I., to the ranch of Montgomery Bros., at Wetaskiwin, Alta. The shipment was perhaps the most unique and most valuable ever received in the city. Montgomery Bros. now have what is believed to be the largest fox ranch in the province, and there is little doubt but that the amount of money invested is the largest in any of the ranches of Alberta. The shipment was made in specially constructed crates, each animal having a small compartment.—Commercial.

All clubs entered must comply with Baseball Association rules with the exception of rule 4.

In case of any disputes the trustees are to be the sole arbitrators, and their decision will be final. The present trustees are E. Burrough, P. Fraser and H. Lewis, of Millet.

PRESBYTERIANS VOTE STRONGLY FAVOR OF UNION

Port Arthur, June 12.—The Presbyterian general assembly late yesterday afternoon rejected the amendment of the "moderates" counselling delay in the church union proceedings, and decisively adopted the main motion advising the assembly to proceed forthwith to union with the Methodist and Congregational churches of Canada on the terms of the prepared bills.

The final vote was officially announced last night, was 428 to 128 in favor of the adoption of the church union committee's report, moved by Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, Toronto; and 416 to 137 against the amendment moved on behalf of the moderates by Rev. Dr. R. D. Drummond, of Hamilton.

Immediately after the vote was taken the commissioners opposed to organic union held a meeting and issued a statement to the effect that the Presbyterian church would continue.

The assembly went through the report of the union committee clause by clause at last evening's session. Closure was applied in definitely settling the church union question, and the debate which opened on Thursday afternoon and which proceeded continuously until four o'clock this afternoon, was abruptly closed. The struggle to reach the platform was exceedingly keen all through the day and there were many undelivered speeches when the hour set for the vote arrived.

The following Presbyteries voted against church union in yesterday's division.

Red Deer, 4 to 1 against; High River, 2 to 1; Barrie 6 to 6; and Hamilton, 11 to 7.

NEW DISTRICT SUPT. BANK OF MONTREAL

Mr. C. W. Chesteron, district superintendent of the Bank of Montreal for Saskatchewan, at Regina, has been appointed district superintendent for Alberta with headquarters at Calgary, in succession to Mr. A. M. Peters, who has been acting in this capacity for the past year and who is now appointed manager of the bank's branch at St. John, N.B. Mr. Chesteron is a native of Ottawa, and entered the service of the bank in 1896. Later he was promoted to the managership, which position he retained until his promotion in 1922, to be superintendent of the Saskatchewan district.

BASEBALL

One of the best games seen on the Western diamond was played on Monday night between Mirror and Wetaskiwin, the visitors winning 3 to 1. Mirror opened the scoring in the first frame with two runners, but from then on Kadlec kept the hits well scattered, allowing only one more run. Walker for Mirror pitched almost ball and was only in danger a couple of times. Once in the fifth, with two down and runners on first and second, Craig hit a hot grounder between short and third, the ball taking a bad bound struck the runner, retiring the side. This broke the leads of one if not two runs. With the breaks of the game the other way the score might have been reversed. Ponaka played Wetaskiwin on the lead diamond on Friday evening, the score being 4-0 in favor of Wetaskiwin.

The ball club this season are trying to pay their own way without taking up subscriptions. The class of ball being played is worth the admission, and the boys would like to see more out to their games.

School Fair Short Course At Olds, July 9-14 Inclusive

The short course for the boys and girls having the best exhibits at fair held at Olds, July 13th to 14th inclusive. Those within motoring distance from Olds will likely be able to find a parent or friend who will be willing to provide transportation. Transportation is the big item of expense and an endeavor is being made to keep it as low as possible.

The short course is very popular. It is a great stimulus to school fair work and is arousing many boys and girls the advantages and possibility of a course at the agricultural school. This year 100 boys and girls will attend at short course. The following will attend from Millet: Ernie Bulhafer, Susie Holmes, Arrol Weir, Howard Jones. Should any be unable to attend, alternatives will be substituted.

ASK GOVERNMENT TO STATE WHAT BALLOT MEANS

Jasper Park Lodge, Alta., June 10.—Discussion of the liquor referendum ballot featured the proceedings on Thursday of the annual convention here of the Alberta Press association. Reported from all parts of the province editors a wide divergence of opinion in their respective constituencies as to the real significance of certain questions. Conflicting views were expressed by the editors themselves and there was general agreement that much confusion and an erroneous registration of the views of the electorate could be avoided only by an authoritative statement clearly; the situation. After almost two hours' discussion the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas this annual convention of the Alberta Press association is persuaded that there is a sincere and widespread difference of opinion throughout the province as to the real effect of certain of the questions on the ballot paper; and in connection with each question a clear explanation of the kind of legislation it proposed to introduce in the legislature in the event of such question being carried."

DYSPEPSIA
GAS ON STOMACH
COULD HARDLY

Mrs. C. Stone, Nantawake, Ont., writes: "Some time ago I had a very serious attack of dyspepsia and was also troubled with gas on my stomach. I could hardly eat anything, and very often had pains after meals. I had used different medicines, but they didn't seem to do me any good. At last I happened to run on the track of Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using it for a short time I felt a lot better.
I continued its use until I was completely relieved and now I am ready to recommend it to anyone troubled as I was."

factured only by The T. Milburn Co.,

BLOCKED

At the sound of the coming of his men, old C.J. straightened up sudden and wheeled on Johnnie Sanders.
"Assuming that you've got me in a hole, what do you demand?"

Johnnie's face sobered. His heart quickered.

"Quebec rule for every yellow birch log in the mud between here and your mill, eleven thousand, five hundred dollars for this valley property, and you can do what you like with it."

Old C.J.'s brows bulged. His mind studied. His hand went to the pen in his vest pocket. Johnnie Sanders held his breath. Old C. J. Kelly poised his pen.

"Why, you young scamp! He flared.
"You've gone crazy. Who do you think you're talking to? Eleven thousand, five hundred dollars" he screamed. "I'll see you in — first"

Johnnie Sanders' cheeks paled and flushed in bitterness and disappointment. His fingers doubled and his knuckles were white.

"But—think, Mr. Kelly, of your mills. They won't run without the water!"

Old C.J. whirled around.
"They won't eh? You suppose I can't send out for a boiler and an engine, eh? And let me tell you something else—eleven thousand, five hundred dollars will buy more engines and boilers than I'll ever be able to use on Crooked Creek in my day!"

Johnnie Sanders turned on his heel and walked away. The bottom had fallen out of his plans. He stopped, picked up a pebble and dashed it into the creek. He said "Damn it!" He threw him, old C.J. was talking to his foreman.

"We'll not touch this thing today, LaFleur," old C.J. was saying. "Het-ter put men and teams on cleaning up the mill yards. Yank out the boom logs. Pile up the slabs. Send some men over to patch up the shingle mill roof. He spun around and addressed himself to Johnnie. "As for you—he snickered. "There must have been some loco weed in that bay you've been eating, to make you think you could put anything over on me."

LaFleur laughed merrily at the jest.
The other men snorted. In the minds of his men, the Boss is always right.
All that day long, Johnnie Sanders remained in the valley. He didn't want anybody to see him. He could not face old man Kelly or any one of old C.J.'s men. He hadn't the courage to meet Katie—just now. He dragged through the weary hours. At the approach of darkness he slipped he headed for his boarding house.
He had a uncle in the city. He would go to him. Perhaps in some other line of work he would succeed. Goodness knows he had tried hard at Crooked Creek.

He ate his supper and went to his room. He picked up. He would walk down the spur to head, and boarding the midnight train he would attempt to "work" the conductor for his fare to the city. But before he went, he must see Katie Kelly.

With his grip in his hand he picked his way past the endless piles of lumber. There was a light in old C.J.'s office. Johnnie slipped up in the shadows and peered inside. Old C. J. Kelly sat at his desk, his face in his hands. Before him was a sheet of hastily scrawled scribbling. For a man who boasted that he could not be bluff, Old C. J. Kelly's present condition was pathetic. Johnnie turned away. Someone brushed by spoke and went into old C.J.'s office.

Katie dropped the handkerchief she was crumpling the border round, and looked an arm around Johnnie's neck.

"Why, Johnnie!" she gasped. "What is the matter? Where are you going?"

Johnnie set his grip on the floor,
and went over to the sofa with Katie.
"I'm going back to city," he blurted. Katie flicked a speck from his collar with her hand.

"But—you're coming back again?"
she queried, alacrity in his voice.

Johnnie stared at the carpet. He shook his head.

"I'm afraid—I'm afraid I'm not,"
He turned around to her. "Katie, that thing up the creek didn't work."

He told her everything that happened up Crooked Creek that morning.

"Then—then you—"

Johnnie Sanders raised his hand.
"Yes—I have failed. There's no use hiding the fact. Your father can install steam power—and do without the creek."

He grabbed up his grip. Katie had got up and was standing away from him. She was sobbing. She was sobbing. "Goodbye, Katie!" He touched her on the shoulder.

Katie raised her head defiantly.
She buried her face in his shoulder.
"That this can't be!" she moaned.
"You must not go! I—I can't live here without you—"

"What's that?" came a gruff voice from the doorway. Old C.J. stamped

In, his heavy boots pounding on the floor. In a glance he had taken in the situation.

"You can't live here without him!
Such silly nonsense!" he snorted.
"Drop that grip, young man! Leave the room, Katie!"

Katie Kelly and Johnnie Sanders exchanged puzzled glances but they obeyed promptly. Old C.J. strode over to a table and motioned. Johnnie took a seat.

"Business is business!" He glanced across the table under beetling eyebrows. Johnnie noticed that at moment that old C.J.'s face was drawn and haggard from worry. "There isn't eleven thousand, five hundred dollars' worth of stuff in that valley property, and—well, you know it!" he thundered, banging his fist on the table to emphasize his argument.

Johnnie allowed him to proceed without interruption. "The four thousand logs in the creek even by the Quebec rule would not bring more than a dollar and a quarter each. Those logs are small, and yellow birch has dropped. You were to pay Caruthers fifteen hundred dollars for that valley property. You ask twelve thousand."

"But that's a creek running down through it now!" Johnnie flared.

"No matter if there were fifty creeks through it—the value isn't there. How are you going to get the material out?"

Johnnie jumped up, grabbed a newspaper off the rack nearby, and drew a diagram on the white margin.

Old C. J. Kelly rubbed his chin reflectively.

"By putting in a sort of dam here"

Johnnie pointed to where the old obstruction had been—"enough water could be let down to keep your mill going. Then by building a twenty-five foot dam here—" he indicated the narrowest part of the valley—"and by bringing over and setting up the old McLaren mill machinery, you can have no occasion to buy a log for a long time to come."

Old C. J. Kelly's face twisted curiously.

"All very good on paper. But how are you going to get the product of this mill to the top of the hill from where it can be loaded to the siding?"

Johnnie Sanders smiled.

"That's easy. We'll put an endless carrier. There'll be no need of surplus power from the valley dam to run it."

Old C.J. jabbed a cigar into his mouth and took three strides of the room.

"It will cost money to do that."

"Sure it will."

"All of that."

Old C.J. came over and stood close to Johnnie.

"But—where's the money coming from to do all this?" he whispered, careful that Katie in the next room
wouldn't hear him.

"Then—then—" Johnnie gasped, rising to his feet. Quick as a flash
he saw old C.J. as he sat in his office an hour before, face in hands, a jumble of figures on the big sheet of paper before him. "Then—then—you—"

Old C.J. rolled his head on his thick
neck.

"I'm on the verge of financial ruin"
he confessed, hopelessly. "To give you what you demand would put me hard on the racks. Oh, I've been doing some tall figuring tonight."

He wrung his hands. "I didn't know I was in as deep as I am. But—"

His hawklike fingers reached over and grasped Johnnie's coat.

"You can help me out of it. I acknowledge to you that you are a better man than I am. What say to getting in with me? We can pull out to the good by amalgamating the valley and Crooked Creek properties on the plans you have suggested."

Johnnie Sanders bit his lip. Old
C.J. had told him that he couldn't have Katie until he had ten thousand dollars in the bank.

"But—but that other proposition!"
Johnnie stammered.

Old C.J. Kelly dropped his hand on Johnnie's shoulder.

"You mean—" he nodded toward the other room.

"Yes"

For answer old C.J. stepped behind Johnnie, placed both hands on his shoulders and pushed him toward the room where Katie waited expectantly.

"Katie wants to see you on business, I believe, that some connection with a wedding," he said.

And some time later old C.J. and Johnnie and Katie sat around the large oak table in the parlor and talked as though there had been no strife nor false hopes nor trouble in all the wide, wide world.

"What I can't get through my head, Johnnie," Old C.J. puzzled, "is how these trees and those rocks got into Crooked Creek and that obstruc-

"Fruit-a-tives", the wonderful one of the greatest means of doing good that this country of ours has ever known.

"Fruit-a-tives" is bringing health to hundreds and hundreds of people who suffer with chronic Constipation, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Mr. Frank Hall of Weywale, Ont., says, "I purchased a box of 'Fruit-a-condition improved immediately.

The dyspepsia ceased to be the burden

then got out of the old creek bed without you having a finger in it—"

Once again the conspirators exchanged glances. Johnnie asked Katie a question with his eyes. Katie nodded acquiescence.

"As you know, you were blocking me," Johnnie explained. "It was a game that two could play. You had put me to a big loss when you told me to drive the yellow birch logs to your mill. You knew they would sink. Well, I bought dynamite and took it up to the creek the night of the big storm. I decided to blow out that obstruction and ruin you if that were at all possible. But, while sitting in the shelter of a big tree which stood in the way of the creek going down through the Caruthers valley, I reasoned that what had at first looked like fair fighting was nothing short of criminal. So I buried the dynamite under the roots of the tree and decided that if the worst came to the worst you could never say that I had fought you underhanded. But—I had not gone more than two hundred yards when there came a blinding flash, followed by a tremendous report that sent me sprawling. Hurt by my fall, I staggered blindly to my feet, the blood streaming from my nose, and, picking my way to the creek, I washed. I returned to the tree. It was gone. The whole complexion of the place had changed.
Trees were uprooted, the opposite side of the bank had been blown out—
you saw what it did?"

AND DIVIDE YOUR DOLLAR WITH YOUR NEIGHBOR

Everybody has a certain amount of Civic Pride—that sort of pride which helps make a village a town and a town a metropolitan city.

The growth of any community is dependent upon the support given its citizens. If we fail in our cooperation the town either stands still or retrogrades. If we uphold the town by sustaining it wholeheartedly we help ourselves and the community.
The theme of this advertisement is "Help our town, buy at home"

Let us divide our dollars among our merchants and fellow-citizens who have the interests of the community at heart. Help them and they will help us to greater values—for increased volume means decreased costs.

The city needs our support and we need the support of the town. Let's get together and share our fortunes.

The Vacant Senatorship

By virtue of his long public service the Honorable Frank Oliver is entitled to the vacant senatorship created by the death of the Honorable A. E. Forster. There can be no two opinions on this point. His presence in the upper chamber would greatly improve that body. Even those who have most frequently disagreed with Mr. Oliver must recognize the advantage to the country and to the province of having a man of his ripe legislative and administrative experience there. It is not often that a person's claims upon such a post, looking at the matter from a broad public standpoint, are as strong as they are in a narrow partisan sense. But this is the case with those of Mr. Oliver. He has fought the battles of Liberalism in this part of the country over a long period of time and it is inconceivable that the present administration will fail to recognize the party's indebtedness to him.—Journal.

HOW TIMES CHANGE

The change in outlook brought about by the rains is instanced by the case of a blacksmith in a small railway town south of Edmonton. In former and more prosperous times he had made as much as $75 a week at his forge, but this spring work did not come in. Day after day went by but brought no demand for his labor and skill. At last he became discouraged and some four weeks ago took the train for the south in search of a new location. Last week a horse stealer, who had learned the blacksmith trade, in response to the instant demands of the neighborhood, went into the abandoned shop and made $35 in three days on the road. And now the wife of the blacksmith owner is frantically telegraphing him to come home to Alberta. The rain made all the difference.—Bulletin.

MOTHER'S FACE

On the tablets of my memory there is painted a face—sweet and kind. I see it in my dreams at night and I love to my pillow a softness as of love's caress. It comes before me—unbidden and unannounced—in the stress of busy days, making duty a joy and placing wings beneath burdens. I have seen this face, not once or twice, when the tempter beckoned, and lo! the good, safe way was made clear! It comes before clouded lights, and the path seemed like night, that face—rainbow crowned—has appeared, rifting the shadows and scattering the mists. Often, when anger whistled, "Vengeance!" and Hate said, "Strike back!" then that face has appeared, smothering the hot fire of anger, and holding in check the tongue that would rave again.

Many times, when walking among the weak and unlovely of earth, that face has caused me to reach down in pity, rather than turn away in scorn. Always, when doubts come and anxieties, that face shines as a flaming sword between these dark things and my soul. This face never comes alone. Associated with it are treasures, inexpressibly precious. There is a smile as beautiful as a summer sunset.

There is a voice whose music is like a harp, angel touched! There is a love that never fails! There are hands made glorious by the scars of unselfish service! There are feet always swift to go on errands of mercy! There is a prayer that opens the gates of heaven! There is a faith that removes things greater than mountains! There is a hope that blazes the road through the shadows, to the goal!

There is a patience that forgives and endures, where it can not conquer! All these, and more, are woven, as a halo, around this face of my dream. And whose face is that, that has survived the yesterdays of life, lends its beauty to the day that now is, and promises to outlive all the days yet unborn? It is mother's face—yours and mine. Just everybody's mother!

COMMUNICATION

(We do not necessarily endorse the sentiments advanced by this or any other correspondent under this heading.—Ed.)

The Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir:—Would you allow me a little space in your paper to let what I think about a matter which affects us farmers a great deal. I am a shareholder and customer of the U.F.A. store. Last Wednesday afternoon I went to the store to do my trading and to attend to other business. Imagine my feelings when I found the door of our store closed and locked and a card looking at me which said, "Closed Wednesday afternoons during June, July and August." I went across the street to the west side and found the biggest store in Wetaskiwin open and doing lots of business and I heard many people say how pleased they were to be able to buy their goods and not go home disappointed, and they sure appreciated the convenience.

I wanted some hardware but could not get it, neither could I get any meat and had to go without meat the next day. Why was our store closed? I attended the annual meeting and no authority was given anyone to close. I was led to believe that in past years the other stores forced us to close. This looks to me now to be incorrect. Is the work in the store too hard to stand six days' work a week? I get up in the morning and help milk the cows and do the chores and drive to town with the cream before the stores open up. Frequently I leave town after the stores close at six, drive home, milk and help do the chores after that and still I must stand it seven days in the week. My boys and hired man now want a half holiday every week too. Us farmers cannot always go to town when we want to, we can only go when our work will allow it. If the Wetaskiwin stores want to drive business away to other towns and to the mill order houses—if they want to create an antagonistic feeling between country and town—if our store does not want to oblige the convenience of the shareholders and customers, well, then keep on closing on Wednesday afternoons. What I want to know is, who is responsible for the closing of our store? Who gave the authority to do so? Thanking you, Mr. Editor.

The Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir:—In your issue of June 7, I notice a quotation from the Red Deer Advocate, which I wish to correct. I do not know who Mr. Jas. Mean is, but I do know that he is a much mistaken man in his assertion that no dragging had been done on the road between Milnet and Wetaskiwin on Tuesday, as on that day I made the trip myself and did the best job that the implement at hand and the bad condition of the roads after the heavy rains would permit. Thanking you for valuable space.

G. C. Hunter.

A PERTINENT QUESTION

"Children," said the Sunday school teacher, "this picture illustrates to-day's lesson. Lot was warned to take his wife and daughters and flee out of Sodom. Here are Lot and his daughters, with his wife just behind them; and there is Sodom in the background. Now, has any little boy or girl a question before we take up the study of the lesson? Well, Susie?" "Please, this," lisped Susie, "where the flea?"

Here and There

An addition to the Canadian Pacific Montreal-Toronto train service is a nightly train each way, making six trains every night between the two cities. The increase was found necessary on account of the heavy tourist traffic to Montreal from the West.

The opinion of Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands of British Columbia, is that "Canada can absorb at least 300,000 people annually, and this number can come on indefinitely. There is no limit to the requirements of the country. As many as we can get are wanted."

Nova Scotia is endeavoring to arrange an "old home" month during July or August of 1923, and it is expected that many from distant parts of Canada and the United States will visit the towns of their origin during the festival period set apart.

Incomparable Lake Louise has achieved new fame. The makers of the Gray-Dart car have put out a model in a new color which they term "Lake Louise Blue." It is of a lovely green-blue, and if it is caught anything of the glorious gleam of Canada's most beautiful mountain lake it should be a popular color for other than motor cars.

Big Bill, the last surviving buffalo at the Pimlico Park Zoo, St. Thomas, was recently shot. The animal had been suffering for some time from the same malady which carried off his mate a few months ago. Big Bill was said to have been the finest specimen of Buffalo east of the Government Park at Wainwright, Saskatchewan.

Albert Steedwell, Canadian Pacific Railway agent at Port William, has an alibi for a wolf killer. Mr. Steedwell has a farm at Upsala, and while visiting the farm the day rounded out a brush wolf and chased it. During the subsequent battle one could hardly tell which was waging and which was won. Mr. Steedwell went to the assistance of his pet and together they finished the wolf.

T. W. McKenzie, Canadian Pacific Railway agent at Rosemary, Alberta, has received letters patent on a device for the purpose of locking automobiles. It is so constructed that when the switch is thrown off the car is automatically locked, thereby eliminating the possibility of an owner leaving his car unprotected. The device cannot be operated nor the car started by an unauthorized person without causing an alarm.

The number of persons killed or injured while trespassing on railroad tracks were 50 per cent. less in 1922 than the average for the preceding fifteen years. The figures are 5,000 for nine months of 1922 compared with 10,736, the average for the previous year, according to an announcement made by the Safety Section of the American Railroad Association. This reduction in casualties is claimed to be due to the improved policing by the roads and to success of the Safety First movement.

From September 1 to March 31 inclusive, the Canadian Pacific Railway has transported to Vancouver 1,861 cars of grain, representing 11,668,328 bushels. Last year during the same period the movement amounted to 2,802 cars or 3,967,632 bushels. From the beginning of the crop season 13,671,320 bushels had been exported from Vancouver, of which 11,128,020 went to the United Kingdom, 2,542,300 to the Orient, and 200,400 to South America. Last year during the same period export amounted to 5,000,000 bushels.

CHANGE OF WATER PLAYED HAVOC WITH HIS BOWELS

Those travelling from place to place are subject to changes of water, changes of diet, changes of temperature, changes of sanitary conditions, and a hundred and one other things.

Under these circumstances it is no wonder they should be subject to diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and pains in the stomach, sensiveness, and other looseness and distress of the bowels.

To all these ailments we can recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as being the most reliable and effective remedy that can be taken, as it has been on the market for the past 78 years, and has proven itself, without a doubt, the best remedy for all bowel complaints.

Mr. Fred Palmer, 217 Dalhousie St., Bradford, Ont., writes:—"When I first went out to the North-West, the water played havoc with my bowels, and being in a remote spot, I could not get anything to give me relief. I wrote and told my wife the time I was having and she sent me a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and I cannot speak too highly of it for what it did for me."

Whenever the children have had trouble from eating fruit and drinking strange water, which they have done for the past few years, on account of living in country, our only remedy is "Dr. Fowler's."

KEEPING WELL
IN SUMMER

"What should one do to keep well in the summer?" says Surgeon General H. S. Commag, of the U.S. Public Health service. "Remember what one has been doing during the winter." As winter occupations are infinitely varied it may seem at first blush that this dictum calls for equally varied programs. However, most occupations fall into responding vacations.

"For instance, most men and an increasing number of women work hard all winter and take a vacation when summer comes. On the other hand, large groups of men and women (farmers, for instance) work hard all summer and take a vacation if they ever get one, in the winter, when farm work is slack. Most women work hard in their homes, and they too have earned a vacation, though their right to it is not always acknowledged. Some men and women appear not to work at all and would be probably very angry if anyone accused them of working. There also need a vacation but very few of them get a real one.

"A vacation should mean very different things to these different classes. A clerk, for instance, should do something that would make him use his muscles (though not in excess), and an iron worker something that would enable him to rest his. A girl who has been typewriting or packing cigarettes, or cooking in some body else's home, should use her vacation in outdoor sports such as playing tennis or something like that. A first wife or mother should rest herself by getting away from husband and children, soothing her nerves by chatting with other women, and having a few moments of genuine privacy. A 'society' girl who really works about as hard as anybody in the service of the Goddess of Pleasure, and is probably (temporarily at least) sick of teas and men and other girls, would do well to attend a summer normal school, where she would at least get a brand new outlook on life—unless she has courage enough to get a job in a factory, where, if she was not too highly some factory girl might take pity on her and teach her the ropes.

"The usual prescription for a vacation is exercise in the open air. Such advice assumes that exercise in the open is the one important thing that most workers do not get. This is, of course, true in regard to many persons, but it is not true in regard to many others—farmers, street cleaners, and chauffeurs, for instance. Anybody who has been spending his or her winter evenings in stuffy rooms studying, playing cards, dancing, or just nodding, should by all means, get out into the open air in the summer. A truck driver, on the other hand, might well spend his vacation indoors.

"Exercise particularly, in the open air, is valuable and, indeed, essential to continued good health. Exercise, however, looks chiefly to physical and ignores mental health, and mental health is now considered to be about as important as physical health.

"Millions of persons, women in particular, perhaps, need a change rather than a rest.

"As a matter of fact, nearly everyone feels this and unconsciously strives to act upon it. The 'tired business man' of whom papers say so much is not as foolish as some people think when he goes to the theatre or listens to a farago of nonsense, for this is the very antithesis of his daily work. Unfortunately going to the theatre is like his business, indoors. "Clerks or working men or girls who attend baseball games show mental judgment, for they get mental stimulus, and if they applaud the players or denounce the umpire with great enthusiasm they get a good deal of physical exercise in the open air. On the other hand, the farmer who works 15 hours a day from early spring to late fall might do worse than spend two winter weeks in the city, fighting off the wily 'confidence' men and attending the movies. And more or less similarly for his wife. They would both get enough mental stimulus to sustain them through the horrid days of next summer.

"The point is to get new ideas for the brain to savor. All persons after being tied to one set of ideas,

U.S. Immigration To Be Restricted in the Future

With so much discussion in Canada at the present time about immigration, it is of interest to know what is being thought and said on the subject across the line. A recent statement by James J. Davis, secretary of labor in the Harding administration and therefore in charge of the immigration bureau, may be taken as authoritative.

"America will never again maintain an open door toward all the people of the earth," said Mr. Davis. "A hundred years ago, when America was new, our government had no immigration policy. Life in the new world was not without its hardships, the struggle for a livelihood was keen, and for this reason only the hardiest, the most sturdy, mentally and physically, sought the opportunities of liberty and freedom offered by the young republic. Gradually from this most progressive of foreign stock, there was brought forth a nation of people conscious of necessity, patriotic because of the bonds of common struggle against the elements of frontier life, ingenious to overcome the obstacles of time and distance which prevented free intercourse for social and commercial advantages.

"America a hundred years ago did not have an immigration policy because it did not need one. But conditions have changed and the means of transportation improved so that a day ocean travel, even the steerage quarters of our great liners, are superior to the housing equipment to which the poorer classes of Europe and Asia are accustomed.

"Our immigration policy first began to form in 1882, when the Chinese exclusion law was enacted. This was soon followed by a few medical and physical requirements for admission, and later, in 1917, a literacy examination and a comparatively rigid rule against the admission of the physically and mentally defective.

"Then came the war, and immigration ceased. As a military precaution all travellers were required to have passports, property verified by American officers. The war over, the stream started again, and gradually assumed the proportions of a flood, which bid fair to sweep all Europe before it. Wartime poverty-stricken and ravaged by diseases of all descriptions, the inhabitants of whole nations were reported ready to shake the responsibilities of war by migration to the country which had a reputation for comfort and plenty.

"A study of the statistics showed that certain countries had furnished practically all of our productive, pioneer, hard-working immigrants, and from those countries they had come first. America did not want the hordes which it saw gathering, for mass immigration, yet did not seek to discourage the types which had formed our basic stock. The analysis of statistics suggested the percentage basis, and this, fixed at 3 per cent of those here in 1910, is the restrictive law today."

Do you know that The Times has considerably more than twice the circulation of any other paper in the district. Remember this when you are advertising!

or to no ideas at all, for months, will find themselves a lot healthier and happier if they can pick up a totally different set of ideas during their vacation. Whether the ideas are wise or foolish they can get a lot out of them, particularly if they can find friends who are considerate enough to find a contradictory set and to stand up for them. The two will prevent each other from vegetating and keep each other happy, even if furious, until the next vacation. Vegetating is the worst thing in the world for a human being.

"It would be as well if all persons would adopt this advice to their own circumstances and work plan vacations for the coming summer, and differ radically from their daily occupations. Such vacations would not turn out quite as was expected; but that would be half their charm. Some persons might even wish they hadn't tried the plan for a week or so after they got home; but the chances are that the vacationers they would try the same or some other 'country plan' once more."

Smoking compartments are to be provided in the new wooden winged monoplane for use on the London-Amsterdam-Berlin air route.

30,980,268 feet of lumber were produced from mills in the Ottawa Valley last season as against 238,116,764 feet in the 1921-1922 season.

Last season's grain shipments through the port of Montreal exceeded 153,000,000 bushels. Revenues reached $2,400,810 providing a surplus of $266,302.

Forest rangers of the Quebec and New Brunswick forestry departments will co-operate to the extent of covering fires on either side of the provincial border.

Two thousand maple and one thousand green ash trees, natives of Saskatchewan, were shipped to the Canadian War Memorial Park at Popperich, Belgium, recently.

Vancouver is to have direct consular trade relations with Spain. A vice-consulate has been established there which embraces the prairie provinces and is the only one west of Montreal.

During the year 1922 boring operations for the discovery of oil and gas in Alberta were continued to the extent of 250,000 feet, resulting in the discovery and development of a field with an output of 180,000,000 feet per day.

Despite reports of adverse conditions in the prairie provinces, Saskatchewan officials estimate that after paying all expenses the farmers of that province last year had $100,000,000 in net proceeds to apply on debts.

In 1906, in Iowa, a single head of oats was selected as being a desirable variety. In thirteen years this single head had multiplied to the extent that 1,200,000 acres were sown to it and showed an increased production of 6,500,000 bushels.

One of the largest timber sales that the Canadian Pacific Railway has made in several months has just been made on Vancouver Island. A group of Seattle lumbermen have acquired 12,000 acres of timber land at Horne Hill. The timber on this stand exceeds 200,000,000 feet.

Part of the plans for keeping the St. Lawrence open all winter submitted by Dimitry Jonavicz, Roumanian engineer, to the Federal and Provincial Governments would call for the erection of a nine mile dam at the east end of Belle Isle strait, which would prevent the cold currents from the north entering the river.

The Bungalow Camps to be opened this year by the Canadian Pacific Railway in the French River, Nipigon and Lake of the Woods will consist of a community house, containing a dining room with stone fireplace, surrounded by several double and single bungalows comfortably furnished for the accommodation of from two to four persons. A number of canvas tents will also be used.

The official opening of the Banff-Windermere Highway will take place on June 30th at Kootenay crossing, B.C. Motorists from all over Alberta, British Columbia and the Western States will be present in large numbers. A lunch will be provided for several thousand people at Kootenay Crossing. Prominent representatives will be present from the Canadian and United States Governments and from provincial and state governments on both sides of the line. The official opening will be marked by the cutting of red white and blue ribbons stretched across the roadway.

MRS. GORMAN SAYS SHE DIDN'T EXPECT TO SURVIVE HER TROUBLE. PRAISES TANCAL

"Three years ago, before I got Tancal, if anyone had told me I would be alive now I couldn't have believed it," said Mrs. Hannah Gorman, 414 Arthur St., Windsor, Ont. "I had suffered from stomach trouble for seventeen years. Many a time I was in such agony I didn't think I could live through the day. I was awful smothering, with terrible headaches, and was so nervous that I was almost frantic and sleep was practically out of the question. Why, I was so weak that I could hardly dress the children, to say nothing of taking care of the household duties.

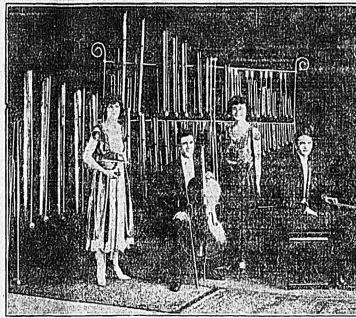

"However, Tancal gave me back my strength, and I've enjoyed perfect health ever since. I gained nearly ten pounds in weight, have a wonderful appetite and sleep eight or ten hours every night and feel so well life is a pleasure. Tancal was a god-send to me. No medicine in the world can equal it."

Tancal is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

COMMITTEES PROBE DEEPLY INTO THE PROBLEMS OF AGRICULTURE

(By D. W. Warner, M.P.)

Well, as it is, my turn now to express my views of the present situation of parliament, I will start by saying that the committee work for some time past has overshadowed parliament so completely that it was hard to keep enough members in their places to constitute a quorum.

I believe the credit belongs to the Progressives to a large degree, for so much good work in considering different matters of interest to the people of the Dominion which have come before the committee. The special agricultural committee has certainly justified its existence. It has taken evidence that demonstrates without a doubt that agriculture is staggering under a load that is not possible for it to carry much longer unless some means are taken to lighten the burden; it is not possible for Canada as a whole to be prosperous again until this is done. And more evidence is coming at every sitting. One of the most important items which this committee is expected to deal with is to work out and lay before parliament a feasible rural credits scheme.

It is the general belief the banking committee has gone farther and more effectively into the financial affairs of the Dominion, both private and public, than any such committee has ever done before as far as the banking business is concerned. It is conceded by all that the Progressives and Labor members on the committee are the most aggressive. They are endeavoring to have the matter of final consideration laid over for one year in order to give full consideration to evidence presented at the various sittings. If the government is in a position to proceed this year and the act is finally revised the mass of valuable evidence may be canned for another ten years.

The civil service parliamentary committee have had rather an onerous job and while no one, except Mr. McGeigh, has professed in the house discussion to believe that the present civil service law is perfect (it is a child of his and of course to him is beyond reproach) most members feel that it can be made more workable by careful amendment, but very few are willing to abandon it altogether. One thing that everyone does appear to agree on is that we have a plenty of civil servants. "They are all down to the wee page boy, and one of the interesting things is that there are none of them that want to do anything else, of all the worries we have heard expounded by the people's representatives, the fear of losing a civil servant has not been expressed, if any existed. They are one class of Canadian citizens that we are not in danger of losing, and quite worthy after all is said. It is not unusual to see four or five trying to perform a service a member might call one to do.

The mines and minerals committee have had rather a disappointing task. They have taken an immense amount of valuable and indisputable evidence, establishing beyond doubt the excellent quality of our own Canadian coal for all uses in Canada, and the urgent need to employ our own miners and railway employees, as well as our railways. After all this has been done the different managements of our transport companies say that it is impossible to make a rate on coal that will permit its being brought to Ontario to compete with the imported coal.

It is to be hoped that there can be found a way to what is at present thought by the managers of these railroads to be impossible, to permit the keeping of some $60,000,000 at home that has been going out of our country to pay for fuel. It would more than make up what our budget lacks in balancing, as brought before parliament recently, the lightning of our burdens to that extent. It is hard to estimate the benefit accruing to the people of Canada by having that much more money circulating each year in our own country, to give employment, pay debts, carry on business and development, and such service that money is supposed to perform in a general way.

The budget is before parliament for the last word and is much like the last straw; in fact its predecessors have been pummeled and canned about for all time since confederation, which I think is the best reason why present members feel it not of much use to discuss this one, it so much like the others have been. The line up of the different groups though, can hardly be allowed to pass without comment at present, at least the indications are that the two old parties will have to both support the present budget because the Conservatives are openly in favor of protection and all that goes with special privileges.

When Mr. Pelling said in his address that he did not expect the budget, as brought down, to suit either the Conservatives or Progressives because it was not a low enough tariff for the Progressives and too low for the Conservatives, Mr. McGeigh made the statement in his remarks in discussion of the budget that it positively suited him. At any rate, it came so near hitting that his party offered no amendment, as is the custom of the official opposition. Judging from present indications at least, the Progressives will be pretty much alone in opposition to the budget, possibly unless, as may be possible, the Conservatives are playing a trick. The Progressives have taken advantage of the opportunity provided to break and introduce an amendment asking for elimination of the protective features from the budget; raising the British preference to fifty per cent and a general reduction to a revenue basis; also removing their request for reciprocity with the United States if at any time such arrangement can be made.

With the prospect of the debate being much shorter than last year, the feeling now is that we may get away from Ottawa by the middle of June. A very important report was prepared to parliament on May 18th—that of the royal commission on lake freight charges. The remedy offered to break the monopoly which they found to exist in the hand of Canadian owned boats in carrying grain between Canadian ports for winter storage, is that power be given to the Governor in council to permit American transport companies to carry grain from one Canadian port to another when thought necessary.

Note—Mr. Warner's article was written before the budget was taken and before the rejection, in the committee on banking and finance, of the motion to suspend the revision of the bank act for the year.

The business men who are forging ahead today are those who have learned to appreciate and wisely utilize the power of printer's ink with due discrimination between the "lowest bid" and the greatest value.

One or One Thousand

Did you ever think of advertising as multiplying yourself as many times as you have created a thought by this means in other persons? You can speak to comparatively few individuals, but you can talk to hundreds and thousands of people through the medium of advertising. The advertising dealer has been talking to numbers of people all through the year. He doesn't know how far his building or repair work ideas have spread nor does he know all the people in whose minds they have lodged. Some may be living twenty miles from his office and, perhaps, so strongly has he impressed them with his service ideas, they will write him or drive over to investigate what he has to offer.

RIGHT ALIGNMENT SAVES TIRES

Careful attention to proper wheel alignment will save the motorist several dollars in extra tire service. Tires on wheels that are out of alignment do not revolve straight forward but slide over the ground dangerously. The sideways motion grinds rubber from the tread, and the effect is the same as if the tire were held against the side of a grindstone, and turned so as to grind down the tread on the entire circumference. A toln of a quarter of an inch should be allowed on the front wheel. This is to neutralize their tendency to spread while in motion. The true running qualities of each wheel can be determined by placing a stationery point close to the wood felloe of the wheel. The place between the point and the felloe should be uniform when the wheel is revolving. Otherwise it is out of alignment. The result of wheel misalignment can usually be detected by the appearance of the tread which is worn down on one side and shows a sharp shoulder.

BY AUTO ON THE GULF OF GEORGIA

WHO has not heard of the thousand isles of the Gulf of Georgia? This Gulf is a ramifications of the great strait of Juan de Fuca famed in legend and history, through which the Spanish navigators sailed hundreds of years ago, and which is now one of the important trade routes of the world. It separates Vancouver Island from the mainland of British Columbia and the State of Washington, and is one of the most beautiful waterways known to man.

The city of Victoria, at the extreme south end of Vancouver Island, has several ferry lines connecting it with the mainland, but as the steamship services in the past have proved inadequate for the large crowds of summer visitors and motor tourists, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has put into service a fast-going vessel which operates twice daily between Victoria and Bellingham, Washington. The ferry is an important addition to the Canadian Pacific fleet and its name, "Motor Princess," is appropriate in that it is the first vessel of the company, operating on the Pacific, to be equipped with internal combustion engines. These engines give the boat a speed of about fourteen knots. On the two main decks there is parking space for fifty automobiles, and there is well appointed accommodation for two hundred and fifty passengers, saloon, restaurant,

PROSPECTIVE CAR BUYER SHOULD BE FULLY INFORMED

Does the prospective buyer of an automobile know enough about a car to ask intelligent questions concerning the product he intends to purchase? That is, does he know the questions to put to a salesman, which, if answered truthfully, will give the information a prospective owner ought to have. If the buyer gets the right dope before buying, he is more apt to be a satisfied owner after the deal is closed and a good advertisement for the make of car he secures. But a person must have some knowledge of a motor car in order to ask intelligent questions about it. A man who is buying his second or third machine ought to be well posted on questions. Often, however, he is not. Like a person having a house for the second time, he looks out for features he felt the want of in his first home. But when he comes to purchase a third house, he has doubtless discovered new facts which would lead to an extra set of inquiries.

The million or more people who in the next twelve months will buy a car for the first time are apt to be all at sea when it comes to securing the most desirable facts. When a person goes to church to listen to the minister, and either takes or rejects what the good man has to say. The occupant of the pew has little chance to ask questions which might clear up certain points about which he is puzzled. But when the automobile salesman tells his story the listener does have an opportunity for his findings. While manufacturers have perfected many mechanical features of the automobile as to make it almost unnecessary to inquire if they function properly, there are a few questions that most buyers would do well to ask. Competition in this industry is so keen that manufacturers find it desirable to give the greatest possible value that is consistent with the price of a car.

Several questions will be readily answered by a demonstration ride. Does the car ride easily on rough roads? Is there sufficient leg room so that all passengers can ride in comfort? Are curtains arranged so that they can be easily applied in case of a sudden storm? Are the levers and pedals so arranged that driving can be done in comfort? Is the vision good—that is, does the windshield post obstruct the view diagonally to the left? Is the motor reliable? This mechanical question hardly needs asking. In standard makes it can be taken for granted that the engine runs well, also that the steering gear is safe. But one might ask: Are the brakes adequate for all occasions? Are the provisions for the adjustment of the brakes easily accessible?

The prices on cars have been reduced during the last few years. Has the reduction in price been made at the expense of the quality of the material and workmanship? One often hears this: "They don't put the stuff in that car that they did five years ago." The inference is that they used to put in better quality. Experience leads to the conclusion that the quality of most cars is getting better and better every year.

What are the weight and wheel-base? A heavy car with a long wheel-base tends to ride easy and with a steadiness when turning. But lighter machines tend to use less gasoline and wear out less tires. A short wheel-base tends to make driving in traffic easier. So that's that. What do you want your car for? Take your choice accordingly.

Are the spring leaves made of a good grade of spring steel, so that they will be ascertained and retitled their resiliency? What is likely to be the annual or the per mile cost of repairs. Ask this question of the man who has one. What are the service facilities for the car? Is there a service station conveniently located? Does it carry a stock of parts which can be secured in a case of emergency? There are those who know of cars being laid up for weeks for want of replacement parts.

How will the values of this car compare with the value of other similar priced machines in a year? What is its standing in the used car market. When the automobile is delivered from the factory, has the sales office any facilities or system of checking up on its condition, seeing that the lubricant has actually got to the spring shackles and to the other parts to which it is intended to go, knowing that the battery is properly installed and charged and that all parts are properly adjusted?

While motorists bemoan the high cost of gasoline, few stop to consider that the key to the situation is in their own hands.

Knowing that the law of supply and demand usually determines the price of any commodity, it is all the more surprising that the nation's automobilists should overlook the fact that it is sheer wastefulness on their part which creates an excessive demand for gas and which, in turn, sends up the price.

Tires frequently do not blow out at the time they are injured. Often they run for several hundred or even a thousand miles after being seriously bruised.

MISFIRING WARNS DRIVER

Water in gasoline can be determined by the irregular firing of the engine. If too much is present, it causes it to stop and makes starting difficult. If water is suspected, the draincock at the bottom of the carburetor should be opened and the contents of the float chamber should be drawn off into a tumbler. Water and gasoline do not mix any more than do oil and water, and if the latter is present it can be readily seen. The line of separation between the gasoline and water is perfectly distinct. The liquid should be drawn off until it becomes free of water.

There are six types of Sunoco lubricant; all distilled. Every impurity is removed by the distilling process. That's why Sunoco really lubricates; and keeps on lubricating. It means more power and longer life—real car-insurance.

PRIZES FOR SHOOTING CROWS

The Northern Alberta Game and Fish Protective League are offering a number of prizes in a competition that will interest some of our local hunters. This league, which has its headquarters in Edmonton, and is forming branches in outside districts is out on a determined effort to keep the crows down in number. It has been proved that these black 'thieves' destroy an enormous amount of game birds—both in the eggs and by taking the young birds—and as their numbers have increased to a very great extent of late years, they are becoming a serious problem to those who are trying to keep the supply of game birds up to normal.

To induce hunters to shoot crows, the league is offering a case of 500 shells to the one who turns in the greatest number of crows' legs. The other prizes are, respectively, 200, 200, 150 and 100 shells to the shooters coming second, third, fourth and fifth. These are good prizes. The contest runs to August 31, and with duck shooting only a little time away, 500 or any number of shells will be a nice prize to win.

To the boys under 16 turning in the most crows' eggs and legs the league is offering a single barrel shotgun.
